

Community • Education • Enrichment • Creativity

FIVE-DAY GRANTSMANSHIP TRAINING PROGRAM

June, 17, 2013

Dear Colleague:

The Juneau Arts and Humanities Council is pleased to welcome the Grantsmanship Training Program to Juneau, Alaska. We would like to invite you to participate in this one-of-a-kind workshop, widely recognized as the “gold standard” of grants training. It will be held August 12-16, 2013 at the Juneau Arts & Culture Center.

The Grantsmanship Center introduced the first grants training ever for nonprofit organizations and government agencies in 1972 and continues to lead the field. The Grantsmanship Center’s programs have been described as the “gold standard” of grants training. To date, the Center has trained more than 115,000 program planners, grant proposal writers, and decision-makers in nonprofit organizations, academia, and government agencies nationwide and abroad.

Designed for both novice and advanced grantseekers, the Grantsmanship Training Program is a hands-on learning experience that covers all aspects of researching grants, writing grant proposals, and negotiating with funding sources. During this intensive, five-day workshop, you will learn The Grantsmanship Center’s groundbreaking proposal writing format, the most widely used such format in the world. You will also learn how to locate new funding sources for your organization and you will work with a team to prepare an actual proposal for funding.

Upon completion of the workshop, graduates receive a full year of free follow-up services through the exclusive Membership Program. These include professional proposal review and access to a comprehensive online database of foundation, corporate and government funding sources.

“Anyone with nonprofit management or grant proposal writing responsibilities, including staff, volunteers, and board members, will benefit from attending this workshop,” says Nancy DeCherney, the Executive Director of Juneau Arts & Humanities Council. “Nonprofit organizations continue to face an uncertain future,” she points out. “With tight state and federal funding, we must acquire the skills to compete for limited resources.”

Tuition for this top-quality training program is $895. (A limited number of half-tuition scholarships are available for organizations with annual budgets of less than $500,000.)

To ensure personalized attention, enrollment is limited to 30 participants. These workshops often fill to capacity, so we encourage you to enroll early. To register, or to apply for a scholarship, call The Grantsmanship Center directly at (800) 421-9512 or (213) 482-9860. Or you may enroll online at www.tgci.com. For more information about the training site, contact Nancy DeCherney at nancy@jahc.org or 907-586-2787.

We hope you’ll be able to join us for this special training opportunity on August 12-16.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Nancy DeCherney", with a long, sweeping flourish extending to the right.

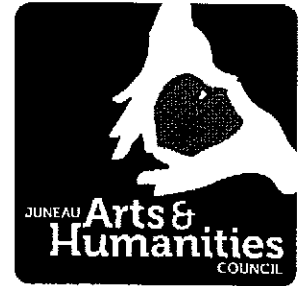

Nancy DeCherney
Executive Director
Juneau Arts and Humanities Council

Community • Education • Enrichment • Creativity

FIVE-DAY GRANTSMANSHIP TRAINING PROGRAM

June, 17, 2013

Dear Colleague:

The Juneau Arts and Humanities Council is pleased to welcome the Grantsmanship Training Program to Juneau, Alaska. We would like to invite you to participate in this one-of-a-kind workshop, widely recognized as the “gold standard” of grants training. It will be held August 12-16, 2013 at the Juneau Arts & Culture Center.

The Grantsmanship Center introduced the first grants training ever for nonprofit organizations and government agencies in 1972 and continues to lead the field. The Grantsmanship Center’s programs have been described as the “gold standard” of grants training. To date, the Center has trained more than 115,000 program planners, grant proposal writers, and decision-makers in nonprofit organizations, academia, and government agencies nationwide and abroad.

Designed for both novice and advanced grantseekers, the Grantsmanship Training Program is a hands-on learning experience that covers all aspects of researching grants, writing grant proposals, and negotiating with funding sources. During this intensive, five-day workshop, you will learn The Grantsmanship Center’s groundbreaking proposal writing format, the most widely used such format in the world. You will also learn how to locate new funding sources for your organization and you will work with a team to prepare an actual proposal for funding.

Upon completion of the workshop, graduates receive a full year of free follow-up services through the exclusive Membership Program. These include professional proposal review and access to a comprehensive online database of foundation, corporate and government funding sources.

“Anyone with nonprofit management or grant proposal writing responsibilities, including staff, volunteers, and board members, will benefit from attending this workshop,” says Nancy DeCherney, the Executive Director of Juneau Arts & Humanities Council. “Nonprofit organizations continue to face an uncertain future,” she points out. “With tight state and federal funding, we must acquire the skills to compete for limited resources.”

Tuition for this top-quality training program is $895. (A limited number of half-tuition scholarships are available for organizations with annual budgets of less than $500,000.)

To ensure personalized attention, enrollment is limited to 30 participants. These workshops often fill to capacity, so we encourage you to enroll early. To register, or to apply for a scholarship, call The Grantsmanship Center directly at (800) 421-9512 or (213) 482-9860. Or you may enroll online at www.tgci.com. For more information about the training site, contact Nancy DeCherney at nancy@jahc.org or 907-586-2787.

We hope you’ll be able to join us for this special training opportunity on August 12-16.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Nancy DeCherney", with a large, sweeping flourish extending to the right.

Nancy DeCherney
Executive Director
Juneau Arts and Humanities Council